Halton Hills - Georgetown: Drew Riedstra submitted his nomination papers to the town yesterday entering an election campaign to sit at the Town of Halton Hills - round table as a Town Councillor of Ward 4.

Drew explains; "Over the past few years, due in no small part to my board volunteer positions with the soccer & hockey clubs, many residents of Ward 4 have approached me expressing interest in having someone on council that would have a more aggressive attitude towards Georgetown youth sports programs and facilities.

I have received many comments about the improvement of baseball, soccer and hockey facilities, as well as questions about the current standards of the town swimming pool, library, and facility meeting rooms.

These inquiries, combined with concerns over progressive town development while maintaining our distinct style, have helped me make my decision to run in the next election for a town councillor of Ward 4.

While I will always have an interest in regional aspects of our town, and look forward to providing input and discussion on those matters, I feel compelled to direct my energy to this area of our great town".

Drew adds; he looks forward to providing the community with a more thorough outline of his campaign platform in the near future.
